ARTHUR'S FIRST SLEEPOVER

AN ARTHUR ADVENTURE

Arthur's First Sleepover (Arthur Adventure Series)

Marc Brown

D.W. presents pleasure to Arthur's campout together with his associates by way of showing as an alien

Booklist (Vol. 91, No. three (October 1, 1994))Ages 5-8. Arthur's 20th experience isn't as tightly plotted as a few of the earlier stories, yet its appeal lies in the way it mirrors life. Arthur and his associates Butch and Brian are having a rambunctious sleepover within the backyard. Arthur's sister, D. W., indicates there is a few area extraterrestrial beings in the community and, with flashing lights, manages to scare the men into pondering the extraterrestrial beings have landed. to not be outdone, the lads draw their very own area monster, giving D. W. a fright. At this point, the Arthur books are a recognized (and beloved) quantity. The artwork is energetic, and the tale is fun. There constantly looks room for one more Arthur.Horn ebook starred (March, 1995)Elaborate arrangements occur as Arthur and his acquaintances equip their tent for a primary back-yard sleepover. Sister D. W. makes the main of newspaper debts of outer-space aliens, and the lads get even following her predictable trickery. one other good-humored Arthur experience jam-packed with a treasure of homey details.Kirkus reports (1994)Arthur's first sleepover is every little thing it may Arthur's First Sleepover (Arthur Adventure Series) be: He and his top acquaintances camp out within the backyard, devour pizza, exchange baseball cards, and stay awake till all hours. The camp-out additionally will get an further Arthur's First Sleepover (Arthur Adventure Series) dose of enjoyable from pranks performed Arthur's First Sleepover (Arthur Adventure Series) at the campers by means of Arthur's sister, D.W., and the boys' reciprocation. it sort of feels there were alien sightings within the region and, up to Arthur protests that he does not think in UFOs, he runs as quick as a person whilst he sees flashing lighting fixtures outdoor the tent. The perpetrator is D.W. and her flashlight. Arthur and his friends, in turn, create a daunting eco-friendly creature out of cardboard to carry up open air of D.W.'s window. She sees it and screams loud sufficient to wake the house. whilst Arthur's First Sleepover (Arthur Adventure Series) Arthur's mom and dad visit payment at the boys, they're all drowsing sweetly. Or so the oldsters think. another diverting event from veteran Arthurian Brown (D. W. Rides Again, 1993, etc.).Publishers Weekly (October 24, 1994)Brown bargains one more Arthur adventure-his 20th-that entertainingly faucets right into a frequent early life experience. the following Arthur is making plans his first sleepover social gathering in his tent. Nothing-neither neighborhood experiences of a spaceship sighting nor ally Buster's mother's preliminary reluctance to allow her son attend-can hose down the younger aardvark's enthusiasm. He even has his digicam on the prepared lest the extraterrestrial beings drop in, so he can snap images and promote them to the nationwide Requirer. yet after buying and selling baseball cards, consuming pizza and combating with pillows, Arthur, Buster and the mind see an eerie light. Is the spaceship approximately to land? As usual, Brown's paintings contributes considerably to the fun: the men make fun welcome symptoms for his or her capability viewers ("We are your friends"; "Please do my homework"); Arthur's First Sleepover (Arthur Adventure Series) and the imaginative and prescient of the petrified friends operating blindly during the yard, tangled of their collapsed tent, will bring forth lots of snickers. young ones certainly wish to examine themselves, and Brown is familiar with good tips on how to make Arthur everykid. a long time

4-8. (Oct.) School Library magazine (October 1994) K-Gr 3-As Arthur prepares for his first Arthur's First Sleepover (Arthur Adventure Series) sleepover, his sister D.W. and all his associates are conversing concerning the UFOs which have been sighted within the area. However, Arthur, Buster, and the mind do not allow the rumors intervene with their plans for a yard event in Arthur's tent. In commonplace fashion, D.W. waits until eventually the lads calm down for the evening and launches her personal "alien" invasion, and Arthur thinks of how to beat her at her personal game. As usual, Brown treats his topic with heat and humor, and his illustrations improve the textual content via their aspect and the visible clues they provide readers. It is a identify that might have huge appeal. -Mary Ann Bursk, dollars County unfastened Library, Levittown, PA
